Report of the School Board.

"Tis education forms the mind,
As the twig is bent the tree's inclined."
So in the life of the pupil.

How few parents realize that the first year in school is the first step in moulding the character of the child and fitting him for the higher grades in school.

In a general way our schools have been satisfactory, they have been under good discipline, and teachers have succeeded wonderfully, where parents cooperated with them.

In some cases parents interfered, thus their children did not make the improvement we wished for, and expected.

For a few weeks the Truant Officer was kept busy that the School Board might be able to report their work to State Superintendent as faithfully performed, according to his requirements.

Every teacher should be ready, and willing to confer with parents as to what is best for the child.

When any fault or defect manifests itself the teacher should discuss it with the parent of the child and always seek means to remedy the evil, and parents should visit the school before condemning the teacher.

Teachers should be leaders of thought in the community, helping pupils to a higher and better life—It has been said—"He is a narrow educator, whose influence is confined to the schoolroom."

Teaching is no longer a make believe but a profession, and no woman who spends the best years of her life in fitting herself for the arduous duties of a schoolroom can afford to work for a mere pittance.

Ordinarily the fewer rules the better. Teachers should have confidence in their pupils, have them understand that rules are only made as occasion demands.

To the busy teacher promptness is of much importance. Not only should pupils be prompt in recitation, but attendance. And here parents should lend a helping hand; they should be watchful, and see that their children are not tardy.

In making out our State Report for the year ending Aug. 1st, 1901 we find only twenty-two pupils who have not been absent or tardy during the year, while the instances of tardiness reached nearly five hundred. Is this necessary? Where are the parents?

Our schools were perhaps more broken owing to scarlet fever, but tardiness can only be overcome through parents,

Quite a little has been expended the past year repairing and cleansing the buildings. The coming year extra money is needed in at least two rooms, where the plastering is falling from ceiling, causing teachers to look up not down.

We trust the town will also vote extra money for school work that we may have some thirty weeks, and thus have a school year equal to adjoining towns.

An unknown friend of education offered two prizes in E. N. Grammer school, not for the best scholar, but for the one averaging best in deportment, rank and attendance,

The first prize of ten dollars was given to Edna Bennett and the second of five dollars, Dean DeMeritt.

To say they were pleased would be but small remuneration to the donor, had he been present and witnessed the joy expressed by the sparkling eye, he would have felt he was amply rewarded without the many thanks expressed.

The following are the names of pupils not absent or tardy for the school year ending Aug. 1st. 1901.

The Provincial Papers, Town Papers and State Papers, twenty-eight Vols. in all, have been secured and placed in the library during the last year. This is a valuable collection of books and the town is fortunate in securing it. The numbers run from 998 to 1027.

Because of extra shelf room these volumes are all kept at the Center.

THE FOLLOWING ARE GIFTS.

918	History of England, Vol. 1,	T. B. Macaulay

1028	Memories of E. S. Coe,	G. W. Bingham
1029	“ “ “ “ “	“ “
1030	Old Home Week Addresses,	Gov. Frank Rollins
1031	Heart of the White Mountains,	Samuel Drake
1032	The Magic City
1033	From Niagara to the Sea
1034	White Mountain Guide,	W. F. Sweetser

The additions for the past year number 116, 65 by purchase and 57 by gift. Considerable money has been spent in rebinding books. Gifts of interesting books are very welcome, as the funds for purchasing are very limited after paying running expenses.

The circulation per week has averaged at the Center about 25, at the Narrows about 30, at the Albion Knowlton library at the Ridge, about 80. The Albion Knowlton library has added 447 books during the year and now numbers 1580.
